FIGHT NIGHT CARD TO FEATURE FIRST-TIME ARMY VS. NAVY AMATEUR MATCH-UP, FOR VETERAN'S DAY EVENT

Washington, DC [October 20, 2010] – Fight For Children's Annual Fight Night - one of Washington's most eagerly anticipated events - returns to the nation's capital on Veterans' Day, Thursday November 11, 2010 at the Washington Hilton (1919 Connecticut Avenue NW). The event is the signature fundraiser for Fight For Children, an independent non-profit organization fighting to ensure all kids in DC receive a great education and stay healthy so they can learn.

In honor of Veteran's Day, this year's boxing card will feature an amateur bout between US Army Boxer Robert "Bobby" Watts and Troy Browning from the All Navy Boxing Team, in a three-round, three minutes per round, "Open Class" Welterweight (152 lb limit) match-up. Both men are stationed in the Virginia Beach area, Watts at Fort Story and Browning aboard the supercarrier USS Bush.

Watts, wearing a Black and Gold uniform, is a Staff Sergeant/E-6 with the US Army, Inland Cargo Transportation Company 119th, at Fort Story and trains at Seven Cities Boxing Club with Coach Robert Matney. Matney is a retired US Navy Chief Petty Officer and President of the Virginia Association of USA Boxing – the governing body for Olympic-style amateur boxing in Virginia.

Browning, ABH3/E-4, US Navy, USS Bush (CVN-77), will wear Blue and Gold. He trains at 757 Boxing in Virginia Beach, with coach Reggie Barnett Sr., a retired US Navy First Class Petty Officer who is also an East Coast Navy Boxing Recruiter.

This year's event also features three professional bouts (the card is subject to change):
